Plot Synopsis:

It is the first day after winter break at East High. The students are firmly divided into familiar cliques: Jocks, Brainiacs, Thespians, and Skater Dudes. Basketball team captain and resident jock, Troy Bolton, is stunned to discover that Gabriella Montez—the brainy girl he recently met and sang karaoke with on a ski trip—has just enrolled at the school.

When Troy and Gabriella decide to audition for the school's winter musical (run by Ms. Darbus), it causes an absolute uproar. Threatened by the disruption to the "status quo," the drama club's reigning duo, Sharpay and Ryan Evans, alongside the couple's well-meaning friends, try to thwart their audition. Ultimately, Troy and Gabriella learn to stand up for what they love, inspiring the rest of the school to break out of their boxes too.

Includes energetic numbers like "Get'cha Head in the Game", "Breaking Free", "Stick to the Status Quo", and "We're All in This Together".
